SDGFA ANTITRUST POLICY

CONDUCT FOR MEMBERS TO FOLLOW AT MEETINGS

The United States' antitrust laws are contained primarily in the Sherman Act, the Clayton Act, the Robinson-Patman Act and the Federal Trade Commission Act. The Sherman Act prohibits conduct that restrains trade, including certain joint activity by two or more companies or individuals, as well as unilateral conduct that involves the exercise of monopoly power.

If you, as an association member, sit in a room while other members engage in an illegal discussion, such as price-fixing, you and/or your company may be held criminally liable even though you say nothing during the discussion. Your attendance at such a meeting may be sufficient to find that you acquiesced in the discussion and are equally as liable as those who vocally agree to violate the antitrust laws. Although within certain sectors of the industry, employees and officers from competing firms know each other as friends and peers, in the eyes of antitrust enforcers, they are viewed simply as competitors with the ability to collude in an anticompetitive manner.

SDGFA members should adhere to the following general guidelines when participating in SDGFA activities and NEVER DISCUSS:

- Current or future prices (The only safe policy is to avoid any mention whatsoever of prices, even past prices);
- What constitutes a "fair" profit level;
- Possible increases or decreases in prices;
- Standardization or stabilization of prices;
- Pricing procedures, including margins, markups, cost percentages; or formulas or policies for arriving at prices;
- Cash discounts;
- Credit terms;
- Control of sales;
- Allocation of markets by territory or customer;
- Blacklisting or boycotting certain customers or suppliers;
- Refusal to deal with a supplier because of its pricing or distribution practices;
- Whether or not the pricing practices of any industry member or supplier are unethical or constitute an unfair trade practice;
- Restricting or limiting production, supply or output; or
- Bids, or your intent to bid or not to bid on a contract.

It is important to bring questionable conduct or potential issues to the immediate attention of legal counsel.
